
Information and guidance on the archaeology of Worcestershire

Worcestershire has one of the richest archaeological heritages of any county of England.

This series of leaflets is designed to help the reader learn about key aspects of that heritage.

The archaeological heritage is a fragile resource and the leaflets will also explain how the past is managed for the future.

The leaflets are copyright to the Worcestershire Historic Environment and Archaeology Service but may be copied for personal or education use.

Versions of the leaflets are also available in electronic form via the web pages of the Historic Environment and Archaeology Service at <http://www.worcestershire.gov.uk/archaeology>
